Barbara Foster

Director of Laboratory Safety
Eberly College of Arts and Sciences
West Virginia University

Laboratory personnel are dedicated to maintaining a “culture of safety” in our laboratories. The health and safety of all laboratory workers depends on teamwork and personal responsibility in all aspects of our work. Apparel, personal protective equipment, chemical safety and waste management, safety equipment, and lab behavior are important aspects of creating a safe and healthy laboratory environment in which to conduct research. Graduate students’ specific safety concerns will also be discussed during this seminar.
